

CAMDEN'S NEW LIQUOR MEN

Two Excise Boards in Full Operation Over the River.

POLITICS GOVERNING LICENSES

The City Board Resolve to Arrest Those Selling Under Permission Granted by the County Board. Trouble Ahead for the Dealers.

The long-talked-of meeting of the Camden City Excise Board was held last night, and $63,000 worth of licenses, represented by 135 applicants, were granted. This is at the $500 figure.

It was shortly before 9 o'clock when City Clerk Varney called the commission to order in the Council chamber, in the presence of the largest crowd ever gathered in that room.

Mr. Cherry named Commissioner Frey, editor of the Camden Courier, for president of the board, and Mr. Cleary nominated his Democratic colleague, Mr. Scheimer. The three Republican members, Cherry, Frey and McDowell, voted for Frey, and Cleary and Scheimer, Democrats, for the latter. Commissioner Frey was declared elected.

In a neat speech President Frey said: "All eyes of this community are at present on the Excise Board. What we do, let it be done to the interest of the greatest number of people."

Then Clerk Varney read a set of resolutions, in which reference was made to the "knocked out" dealers of this city immigrating to Camden and securing licenses.

The resolutions say that the present license fee of $500 was not oppressive and that the present rate should be retained. They also declared the act creating the County Board to be unconstitutional and asked that the City Board should not recognize the other board. The resolutions concluded by instructing the Mayor to arrest any saloonkeeper who sold liquor without first securing a license from the City Board.

"Where does that communication come from?" asked Mr. Scheimer. "Mr. Cherry," responded Clerk Varney. They were then passed by a vote of 3 to 2.

A communication from the County Board, notifying the City Board that they had reduced the fee to $300, was received and ordered filed.

A motion was then passed that in case the Supreme Court indorsed the County Board the fee, as made by that body, be respected and $200 returned to the applicant.

Many applicants paid $500 and took out their license, while others rushed to the court house expecting to find the County Board in session, but they had adjourned to meet at noon to-day.

The Republican members of the City Board declare that they will follow out their resolution and cause the arrest of any man or woman who sells liquor in the city without a license from their body.
