STRIKING SHOPIEEN PARADE AT CAMDEN

Alarm Felt When 200 March, But They Only Wanted to Draw Their Pay

Fascination of Civilian's Wife for Soldier Supplies Ground for Divorce Decree

For a time some apprehension was felt yesterday when about 200 striking workmen from the Camden, S.C., and the railroad companies marched through the city. It proved to be just an order by the company to aker their pay. The city and the railroad company had been informed of the fact and the soldiers had been ordered to the scene.

It was signed by the company that there would be no more work for the time being. About 200 men, including about 100 women, marched down Congress Street, through the town, and on to the railroad station.

It was said that the company would not strike again until they were paid for the time that they had worked.

Strikers have been picking the pay out of the office and then taking it back out of the office.

It was said that the women who were taking the money back out of the office would not be paid what they had worked for.

With seventy-five of their fellow strikers, such as James Clarke, an veteran of the Civil War, Mrs. Clarke and the other strikers from her house at Front and South Streets, marched down Congress Street to the railroad station.

In the early hours when Mrs. Clarke had gathered about 100 women workers, the attention of the company was called to the fact that the women were not paid for the work that they had done.

The company, however, said that they would not pay for the work that the women had done.

Indications are that Camden Democrats in favor of Mrs. Clarke, a member of the State House, are likely to be returned to the State House.

more home building is going on in accordance with the plans of the company.

Mrs. Clarke said that the company had declared that they had no money to pay for the work that the women had done.

The company, however, said that they would not pay for the work that the women had done.

Mrs. Clarke, who has been living in the town for several years, said that she had been instructed by the company to return to the State House.

Albert Noyes for the place.

The company, however, said that they would not pay for the work that the women had done.

Mrs. Clarke, who has been living in the town for several years, said that she had been instructed by the company to return to the State House.

The company, however, said that they would not pay for the work that the women had done.

Mrs. Clarke, who has been living in the town for several years, said that she had been instructed by the company to return to the State House.

The company, however, said that they would not pay for the work that the women had done.

Mrs. Clarke, who has been living in the town for several years, said that she had been instructed by the company to return to the State House.

The company, however, said that they would not pay for the work that the women had done.

Mrs. Clarke, who has been living in the town for several years, said that she had been instructed by the company to return to the State House.

The company, however, said that they would not pay for the work that the women had done.

Mrs. Clarke, who has been living in the town for several years, said that she had been instructed by the company to return to the State House.

The company, however, said that they would not pay for the work that the women had done.

Mrs. Clarke, who has been living in the town for several years, said that she had been instructed by the company to return to the State House.

The company, however, said that they would not pay for the work that the women had done.

Mrs. Clarke, who has been living in the town for several years, said that she had been instructed by the company to return to the State House.

The company, however, said that they would not pay for the work that the women had done.

Mrs. Clarke, who has been living in the town for several years, said that she had been instructed by the company to return to the State House.

The company, however, said that they would not pay for the work that the women had done.

Mrs. Clarke, who has been living in the town for several years, said that she had been instructed by the company to return to the State House.

The company, however, said that they would not pay for the work that the women had done.

Mrs. Clarke, who has been living in the town for several years, said that she had been instructed by the company to return to the State House.

The company, however, said that they would not pay for the work that the women had done.

Mrs. Clarke, who has been living in the town for several years, said that she had been instructed by the company to return to the State House.

The company, however, said that they would not pay for the work that the women had done.

Mrs. Clarke, who has been living in the town for several years, said that she had been instructed by the company to return to the State House.

The company, however, said that they would not pay for the work that the women had done.

Mrs. Clarke, who has been living in the town for several years, said that she had been instructed by the company to return to the State House.

The company, however, said that they would not pay for the work that the women had done.

Mrs. Clarke, who has been living in the town for several years, said that she had been instructed by the company to return to the State House.

The company, however, said that they would not pay for the work that the women had done.

Mrs. Clarke, who has been living in the town for several years, said that she had been instructed by the company to return to the State House.

The company, however, said that they would not pay for the work that the women had done.

Mrs. Clarke, who has been living in the town for several years, said that she had been instructed by the company to return to the State House.

The company, however, said that they would not pay for the work that the women had done.

Mrs. Clarke, who has been living in the town for several years, said that she had been instructed by the company to return to the State House.

The company, however, said that they would not pay for the work that the women had done.

Mrs. Clarke, who has been living in the town for several years, said that she had been instructed by the company to return to the State House.

The company, however, said that they would not pay for the work that the women had done.

Mrs. Clarke, who has been living in the town for several years, said that she had been instructed by the company to return to the State House.

The company, however, said that they would not pay for the work that the women had done.

Mrs. Clarke, who has been living in the town for several years, said that she had been instructed by the company to return to the State House.

The company, however, said that they would not pay for the work that the women had done.

Mrs. Clarke, who has been living in the town for several years, said that she had been instructed by the company to return to the State House.

The company, however, said that they would not pay for the work that the women had done.

Mrs. Clarke, who has been living in the town for several years, said that she had been instructed by the company to return to the State House.

The company, however, said that they would not pay for the work that the women had done.

Mrs. Clarke, who has been living in the town for several years, said that she had been instructed by the company to return to the State House.

The company, however, said that they would not pay for the work that the women had done.

Mrs. Clarke, who has been living in the town for several years, said that she had been instructed by the company to return to the State House.

The company, however, said that they would not pay for the work that the women had done.

Mrs. Clarke, who has been living in the town for several years, said that she had been instructed by the company to return to the State House.

The company, however, said that they would not pay for the work that the women had done.

Mrs. Clarke, who has been living in the town for several years, said that she had been instructed by the company to return to the State House.

The company, however, said that they would not pay for the work that the women had done.

Mrs. Clarke, who has been living in the town for several years, said that she had been instructed by the company to return to the State House.

The company, however, said that they would not pay for the work that the women had done.

Mrs. Clarke, who has been living in the town for several years, said that she had been instructed by the company to return to the State House.

The company, however, said that they would not pay for the work that the women had done.

Mrs. Clarke, who has been living in the town for several years, said that she had been instructed by the company to return to the State House.